Magic and Puppet Show at Asian International

The tiny-tots of Asian International School were enthralled to watch the Puppet Show (LKG & UKG) and Magic Show (Class I) on 18 April. The Puppet show proved to be a special treat for the toddlers, succesfully which captured their attention and opened the doors to their imagination. Puppetry, a powerful medium of story-telling, not only left an impact on the students, but also strengthened their language skills. It created more possibilities for creative thinking, collaboration and curiosity.

The Magic Show performed by a professional magician astonished and mesmerised the students. While performing different tricks with ribbons, a magic box, magic balls, rings, etc., he called up a few children and performed astounding tricks on them. The children amplified their observation skills and concentration. They had a lot of fun.

ASIAN INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Like every year, our school organised a cultural programme under the guidance and supervision of teachers. The first programme, Kobi Pranam, began with the inaugural song Prano bhoriye, followed by a dance performance Dui pakhi by students of Class V and Class VI. The next presentation was Gitanjali, a recitation of the English translations of the poems and songs by students of classes V, VI, X and XII. The beautiful cultural programme came to an end with the presentation of Tagore's dance drama Balmiki Pratibha. Through various programmes, we tried to pay our tribute to the poet and also make the youngsters aware of the contribution of the multi-faceted genius to the world of literature.

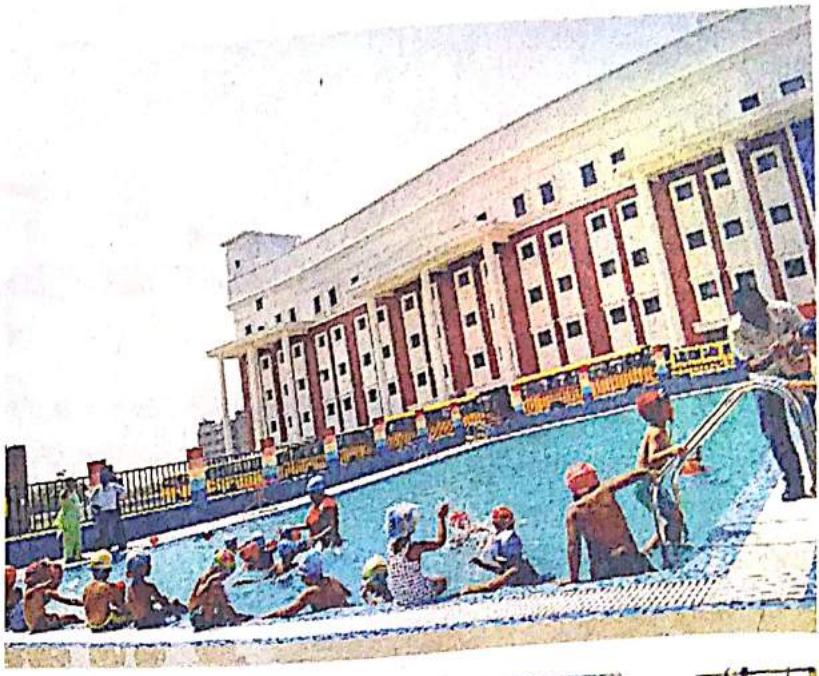
Pool party at Asian International School



The pre-primary department of Asian International School held a pool party for the students from May 7 to 10, in the school's swimming pool. The tables and chairs for the children were arranged with colourful umbrellas to add ambience to the party. The tiny tots of LKG, UKG, class I and class II turned up in colourful swim suits, glasses etc and had great fun in the water. Observant teachers clasped their little hands and led them in to wade. Refreshing pool party music added to the mood and was relished by all. Water play activities in young children strengthened their motor skills , build body balance and ability to propel and navigate. The kids were still beaming and in no hurry to beat a retreat.

Earth Day celebrations@AIS

Asian International School celebrated Earth Day week recently in which students of class Lower KG and Upper KG performed an activity on "Introduction to Nature".

The students of class I took part in the activity "Plant a sapling". The students were taken for a nature walk and introduced to different types of trees, birds, flowers etc.

They were also given an opportunity to explore the school lawns and garden. They were taught rhymes on nature like- 'Incy, wincy spider, Two little dicky birds,' etc.

The teacher also explained the importance of plants which provide shelter, medicine and help in conserving water. She showed the different parts of a plant like – root, shoot, leaves, stem, flower etc.

They were encouraged to water plants everyday as plants are also living things, which grow, breathe and feel. Both the activities were very informative and interactive.

Rabindra Jayanti is an annually celebrated event in the remembrance of Nobel Laureate Rabindranath Tagore's birth anniversary. Like every year Asian International School had organized a cultural programme under the guidance and supervision of the teachers. The first programme 'Kobi Pranam' began with the inaugural song 'Prano bhoriye, trisha horiye' followed by a dance recital 'Dui Pakhi' performed by the students of classes V and VI. Our next presentation was 'Gitanjali' — a recitation of the English translation of the poems and songs by the students of classes V, VI, X and XII. The beautiful cultural programme came to an end with the presentation of Tagore's dance drama 'Balmiki Pratibha'. Through various programmes, we tried to pay our humble tribute to the world poet. This helped the youngsters to know the contribution of the multi-faceted genius in the world of literature.

Asian International celebrates Earth Day

Our school had organised an extensive 'Grow a Plant and Save the Earth' programme on the occasion of Earth Day involving students of the primary section. The students and teachers of Class II selected the empty space near the garden area and conducted an activity of sowing seeds, which was very well organised.

The students of Class III also actively participated in the activity wherein they brought waste bottles and jars filled with soil from their houses. The students with the help of the teachers sowed different types of seedlings in the re-cycled bottles. The entire activity was immensely informative and additional knowledge was provided by the teachers.

The Class IV students had organised a poster-making competition on the topic 'Grow a Plant and Save the Earth', where the young learners actively and very enthusiastically participated. The children were divided into groups.

The main aim of this drive was to spread and create awareness to protect the environment from degrading. The teachers delivered informative speeches on the effects of global warming and the importance of trees in our lives. The activity was a great success as each student contributed profoundly for this day. This awareness was a small step towards a big mission - the unity of everyone in taking proper care of the environment.

Asian International School holds Youth Parliament

The Asian International School Youth Parliament was held on January 11 in the new ground at the AIS campus. It was the replica of the Parliament session on the topic "Digital India sub-topic based on Education and Finance".

Students of classes VIII, IX and XI participated. They were dressed up like the leaders and were looking elegant in their characters. Two parties were made the Ruling party and the Opposition. Shounak Ghosh was made prime minister and Lakshya Jain was the Opposition party leader. Other members like Swikrit Chakraborty as finance minister, Anisha Baag as education minister, Kunal Sancheti as external affairs minister, Yashbardhan Singh as home minister and Suryakant Jhawar as transport minister, played their roles well. They formed the council of ministry.

Both the parties debated for and against the given topic. All the students delivered very good speeches.

BRITISH COUNCIL WORKSHOP

Teachers of Asian International School underwent a three-day training by experts from British Council. The trainers taught them how to make three consecutive classes interesting as well as factual and interactive. Every activity brought with it something to know or something to revise. The trainers taught them, "stay hungry, stay foolish". That is, be open to any knowledge that approaches you. Day I started with a different introduction session. Each teacher had to say his/her name by adding an adjective that starts with the same letter as the name. The trainers also engaged the teachers in several games.

Activities at Asian International School

British Council workshop

The three days of training went well with synchronization and harmony. The trainers (Sumana and Aarti) taught us how to make three consecutive classes interesting as well as completely factual and interactive. It did not let us feel a single moment of monotony. Such were their preparation and the schedule was crisp.

Every activity had either something to know, something to revise or something to pair. They taught us "stay hungry, stay foolish'. That is to be open to any knowledge that approaches you. Day one started with introducing each of us to them in a disparate way. We were to tell our name by adding an adjective with the same letter with which our name starts and this promoted a lot of critical thinking. Thus their intention was clarified right in the beginning of the session.

Our trainers had also engaged us in several games like we had to stand in a circle and then count from 1 to 25 in two languages as in "one.. do.. three.. chaar.. four.. paanch.. six.. saath..eight and so on..." Games consecutively had put us into critical thinking such that we earn knowledge of the technicalities of how to teach students in a different way and how to make classes more and more interesting. We were also asked to play a game which was much like dumb charade that had put in drama in the form of literature integrating disparate subjects. We were put into five groups and a member from each group needed to act out 'a letter' related to one's own subject and the rest watching the enactment would guess the word. Such a whim brought had not only an innovation in teaching and learning but also energized both the teacher as well as the learners.

We were asked to make a chart where we drew a wardrobe that comprised the scholastic as well as non scholastic in form of matters put into different shelves according to our own vigilance and criteria. We were also asked to make lesson plans that would have integration of two to three subjects, including our own subject, such that students find connection and attachment of different subjects in classes of four to five periods.

Sumana and Aarti had updated us in the method of teaching. Besides inclusion and using of ICT in teaching, learning was given importance. For example while teaching a lesson of literature one might always give the students an opportunity to watch the novel in the form of a motion picture or at least have a pictorial explanation as visual learning is more effective than other modes of learning.

Children enjoy Red Day

Asian International School has organized Red Day for classes LKG and UKG. The children were asked to bring red tiffin and they made craftwork. The children recited rhymes on the basis of Red Day by using their respective props. The children of LKG made dogs with paper plate and those of UKG made pizzas with paper plate. The audience was the students of LKG and UKG. The children had actively participated and had enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

British Council award for school

When the globe comes into a classroom rendering the value of "one earth one being" then a wonderful concept like 'British Council International School Awards 2017-18 ISA' gets involved.

Asian International School, Howrah initiated a process to instill a global dimension to the teaching and learning experience and registered for British Council International School Awards 2017-18. As a part of the ISA action plan, our school planned a rich mosaic of seven activities with an international perspective in coordination with the partner school in Nigeria.

The students of different age groups (from pre-primary to Class XII) participated enthusiastically in the following activities.

The activities designed were:

- One team one Dream (sporting activities),
- Fibre to fabric (evolution of fabric),
- Rule Thyself (self government),
- Prismatic Vistas (cultural heritage),
- Thinking for the planet (time to heal her),
- Inspiring the change (celebrating the feminine),
- Our footprints

Our partner school for these multifarious activities was The Indian School, Lagos, Nigeria.

Asian International School being a part of this programme benefitted in a comprehensive way, enabling a holistic growth in the students through the cross culture exchange of views opinions shared through Skype sessions between both the schools. After a year's meticulous planning, a lot of hard work was incorporated into this project. It gives us immense pleasure to share that the portfolio we submitted to the British Council has been approved and acknowledged and the prestigious award has been rendered to us for the period 2018-2021.

As an educational organisation for shaping a child's future globally, Asian International School took up an extremely well structured prerogative to perform such varied curriculum under one roof.

We are thankful to the British Council to have given us this opportunity to conduct this project and help us achieve this international dimension.

Workshop

A workshop on training programme for prospective teachers in challenging areas in mathematics was conducted for Class X recently. Different methodologies of teaching mathematics in Class X, along with the meaning and importance of constructivism and Bloom's taxonomy were discussed. The importance of innovative methods of teaching to overcome a child's phobia for the subject was also stressed upon. All participants gave their views on gender sensitisation through role play and some tips were also given to promote a gender equitable environment.

Every participant was actively involved in the event and shared their ways of developing lesson plans which covered every topic from the Class X syllabus. Samples of lesson plans incorporating various strategies for diverse learners were also distributed to all the participants.

The common errors made by students which can be categorised as conceptual and procedural errors were also emphasised upon. Giving importance to the individuality of every child, different strategies for diverse learners through lesson planning and teaching methodology were discussed.

Regalia

Regalia, an event meant for children aged between three and seven years, took place on the new ground of Asian International School.

Schools such as Foundations School, House of Petals, Wonder Play, and Rahi Kid's Planet participated in this event. Asian International School students also took part in events such as painting and fancy dress competition.

The chief guest was Usha Rawat from The House of Petals. She not only encouraged the children with her valuable words but also judged the fancy dress competition along with Vijay Lakshmi Kumar, the principal of Asian International School.

The audience enjoyed a lot when the children introduced themselves dressed as cartoon characters.

Youth Parliament

The AIS youth parliament was held on the new ground of AIS. It was a replica of the parliament session based on the topic, "Digital India" with the sub-topic based on education and finance.

Students of classes VIII, IX and XI took part in it. They were divided into the ruling and opposition parties.

Both the parties fought for and against the given topic. The students did justice to the characters they portrayed.

NSE FUNancial quest

Students of classes VIII and IX of Asian International School participated in a workshop arranged by the National Stock Exchange of India. The workshop was meant to help the students understand money management and how to save and invest the funds. At the end of the workshop, a test was conducted, on the basis of which two students each were selected from classes VIII and IX for the city-level round in which 21 schools participated.

SCHOOL NOTES

The pre-primary department of Asian international School presented an informative and interactive assembly on the school premises. The assembly started with the prayer.

Students of LKG performed on the topic, Modes of Transport. With the help of attractive props, children spoke about the various modes of transport, i.e. aeroplane, bus and train. Their performance ended with a beautiful poem recitation.

The assembly of the students of UKG was on the topic, Parts of a Plant. The children played the roles of different parts of a plant, i.e. seed, root, stem, leaf, flower and fruit. In their gorgeous attires, they even performed a dance to the song, I Am A Tree.

The last performance of the day was presented by the children of Class 1 on the topic, Healthy and Junk Food. The children looked beautiful in varied costumes depicting healthy and junk food. Attractive handmade props such as cutouts and head gears showed that their concept was clear on the topic.

The assembly was undoubtedly a result of the immense efforts put together by the students and the teachers of the pre-primary department. The assembly concluded with the national anthem.

Plastic in any form or of any quality is harmful to health. In a perfect world you would want to avoid exposure to all forms of plastic. Considering the fact that plastic lurks in every nook and corner of our lives, banishing it completely seems impractical.

But we can start with raising more awareness about the little ways in which we can reduce our exposure to plastic. This can go a long way in reducing toxicity from our body.

To raise this awareness, students of Class V performed a mime act, Say No To Plastic. Plastic is a major indicator of our disposable consumer society; single-use plastic bags are a great danger to our oceans and environment. They create serious consequences for the ecosystem, on marine animals, and on mankind.

Every second, 160,000 plastic bags are used around the world. A plastic bag is used for an average of 12 minutes. Last year, 50 per cent of these bags were land-filled and 8 billion ended up in the environment. Hundred per cent of this pollution is man-made; so we are 100 per cent responsible for finding a solution.

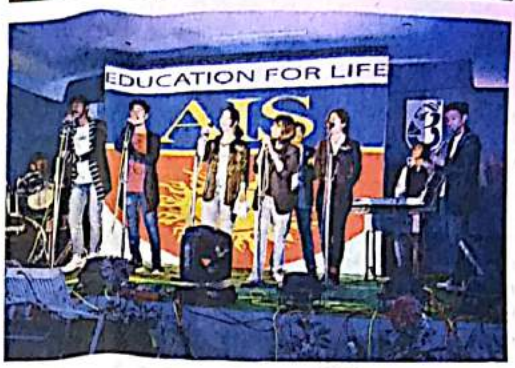
Blessing ceremony and farewell at Asian Intl School



The students, teaching staff and management of Asian International School, bid farewell to the outgoing students of class XII recently. The farewell was accompanied by the blessing ceremony for both the classes X and XII. The day was well organized by classes IX and XI students, who gave their best wishes to their seniors.

The farewell party was celebrated with fervour at the school campus. It was an energetic occasion for the outgoing students to look back at the time that they spent in the lawns of AIS's Campus and the professional education that they acquired during the period.

The director of the school along with the principal, the headmistress and the teacher in-charge enlightened the lamp thereby delivering an enthusiastic speech forwarded the programme.

The outstanding performances by the students added a beautiful fragrance to the flavour of the day.

The mesmerizing Kathak-Chinese fusion dance and all those of beautiful songs on friendship were so energetic that the day went as all in all. It ended on a happy note with the amazing inspirational speech by the principal of the school followed by the vote of thanks by the headmistress of the school.

Mom - a three-letter word which holds an unfathomable sensation and emotion for each and every living being out here. Despite everything and everyone, mothers are the only living miracles which provide spine to a broken rib or ointment for a broken heart. Their love is immeasurably immense, for they can go beyond their limits just for the sake of their family and children (more specifically). Mothers of all kinds - working or non-working, biological or non-biological - deserve to receive a standing ovation along with a huge round of applause for their sacrifices and blind love towards their children.

A mother's love is blind for she starts loving her child/children since the blastula stage. It's the mom's face which every newborn gets a glimpse of just after the birth. It's the mom's lap which takes away all sorts of fear, trepidation, trauma, consternation, and stupefaction. I could recall a moment when her touch disintegrated my fears within seconds. Unknowingly and unintentionally, we all pour out our anger and frustration on her because we know that no matter what we say or do, she'll always forgive us with a smile. On asking the reason behind this mildness and tenderness, she replied with a graceful curve on her face, "You'll understand the feeling of motherhood when you'll become a mother". Being perplexed, out of curiosity, I asked her a few questions. The answers almost amazed me.

TIMES hre Star Correspondent

How does first motherhood feel like?

I felt complete when you were born. March 20, 2002 was the most divine and beatific day of my life. I could still remember the melody of your first cry. Overall, it's a sensation that has to be felt. No matter how hard you try, you can never describe it in words.

How did you manage to bear the labour pain?

The pain is simply unbearable and horrifying. I was only thinking about you - how you'll look, your first cry etc and was praying for a healthy baby. Thinking about my happiness (you) took away my pain. Moreover, I was going to deliver a super-small cutiepie! Isn't this thought enough to forget all the pain? (laughs)

Female foeticide is common in India. So did you ever think of this?

No way! We desperately wanted a girl child as she's a reflection of all the goddesses and good omens. For your dad and me, you were and are equivalent to a boy. We decided not to ever deprive you of the opportunities which usually a boy gets in this patriarchal society.

My mom is undoubtedly a blessing in disguise. She understands me better than anyone else. I really don't know how to thank her for whatever she does for me every now and then. It's a nightmare to imagine a world without her. Even though I'll be adult in a year, I still rely on my mom for the slightest of necessities. I'm not complete but am finished without her - though both the words mean same to an extent. In nutshell, she's Thor's Mjolnir, Captain America's shield and Hawkeye's sword and simultaneously, she's my "Ironman with a heart". I owe her a lot. And lastly, not all superheroes wear capes. I'd like to end this article with a quote by Leonardo DiCaprio: "My mother is a walking miracle". Happy Mother's Day to all the selfless and loving mothers.

Asian International School celebrates Green Day Week

The pre-primary department of Asian International School celebrated Green Day Week for the students, from June 11 to 14, in an instructive way where the students learnt about the importance of green colour and its positive effects on our lives. The students of LKG, UKG and class I dressed up in green coloured clothes and brought green eatables in their tiffin. A detailed insight into the recognition of the green colour was given by using props. A green corner had been decorated with the green toys of the students. The highlight of the celebration were the little speakers who stepped forward with zeal and confidence to deliver short speeches on different green objects. The tiny tots perceived how green colour fills the air and our lives with freshness, thrill, ecstasy and bliss.

Asian International School hosts Regalia

Regalia, the word, gives a sense of joy and puts a smile on the face of all the people who worked on that day to make it a success. Regalia took place in the new grounds of Asian International School on January 27 just after we completed Independence Day-celebrations. This event made us realise that we, the adults, have become hardened by experience and forgotten our innocence.

Regalia was for children between three to seven years. Various schools like Foundations School, House of Petals, Wonder Play, and Rahi Kid's Planet participated in this event. The students of Asian International School also took part in various events like colouring, painting and fancy dress competition.

The chief guest for the event was Usha Rawat from The House of Petals. She not only encouraged the children with her valuable words but also judged the fancy dress competition along with our principal Vijay Lakshmi Kumar.

Children coloured the events with their innocent smile and words. The entire gathering enjoyed a lot when each child introduced the cartoon character that they represented. Few of them acted smartly on stage while some got nervous. But it is needless to say that every minute of the event was enjoyed thoroughly by the participants as well as the audience.

Students learn through science exhibition@AIS

A science exhibition is generally a learning platform where participants present their science project in the form of a report, display board and models that they have created. It is an opportunity for students to apply the scientific method to conduct an independent research.

The inaugural science exhibition of Asian International School was a tribute to India's Lunar Exploration Mission "CHANDRAYAAN 2", launched on July 22. The school held a three-day science exhibition which was held at the school assembly hall.

Rita Panjs, director of PP Memorial Academy and Amrita Mazumdar, principal of PP Memorial Academy inaugurated the exhibition. The school band gave a grand welcome to our chief guests. Light and brightness symbolizes the positivity. Our exhibition started by lighting of the lamp followed by the felicitation of the dignitaries by the principal and the headmistress. Then our esteemed guests proceeded towards the exhibition area and keenly interacted with students who exuded confidence while explaining them their various projects and activities that were on display.

The exhibition saw more than 100 working models made by the middle school students. Children were divided into two groups with classes V and VI in one group and classes VII and VIII in the other. Children made models from all the categories, like the physiological group made models on circulatory system, respiratory system, excretory system, digestive system, functioning of the human heart etc. These models depicted association of biology with the concepts of physics.

In electronics, children made projects like room heater, air cooler, electric bell etc. Students tried to bring out their ideas about the negative causes of different kinds of pollution, green house effect, conservation of solar energy though their models. They promoted save forest and save environment motto with the those models. Children associated science in daily life by showcasing things like mini table fan, ATM machine, eco friendly pen, hydraulic lift etc. In the section "science evolved in natural calamities", the students prepared models on erupting volcanoes and its process, an earthquake alarm machine. Some of the distinguished working models of the science exhibition were the robot HOX, geometrical city, division machine, candy vending machine and working ship. On the walls there were various posters explaining interesting facts about science. Students prepared various models covering alarming issues related to environmental pollution and providing a solution to control the same.

The exhibits were evaluated by a panel of distinguished judges from the field of science and the results of the exhibition were announced by the principal. The exhibition was a huge success as the objective of bringing out the talents of the students with a focus on creating an interest in science and technology was accomplished. It not only honed the communication skills of the students, but also polished their skills in technology and was a step forward towards their all-around development.

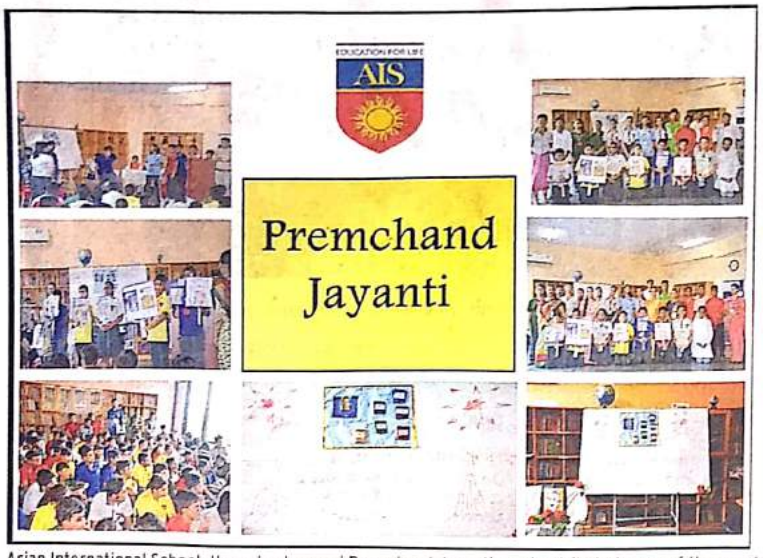
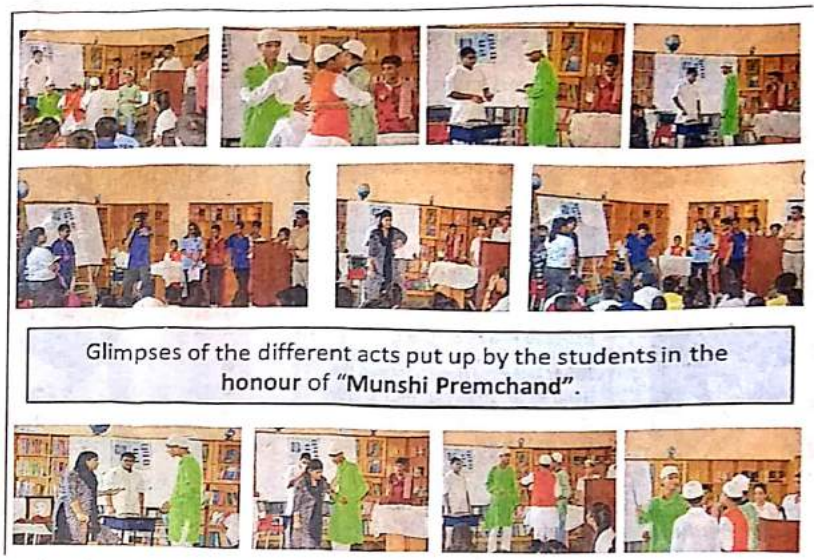
Premchand Jayanti@Asian Intl School





Glimpses of the different acts put up by the students in the honour of "Munshi Premchand".

Asian International School, Howrah, observed Premchand Jayanti, paying tribute to one of the greatest writers in the field of Hindi literature, Munshi Premchand. He has been one of the pioneers in depicting the follies of Indian society and portraying the hardships of poor and common man in most of his writings. While doing so, he also depicted the value of human relations across all sections of the society. He is one of the most celebrated writers of the India and is regarded as one of the foremost Hindi writers of the early 20th century.

The celebration of the day started with an introductory lecture by the principal on the life and contributions of Munshi Premchand. A short skit named "Kafan", was presented before the audience. Another interesting presentation "Idgah" was also staged. An English version of his writings is also available for readers.

The pre-primary department of Asian International School organised the Community Helpers' Week for the students in an interactive and informative manner which not only broadened the children's horizon but also helped them learn about the world beyond home. Teachers introduced the helpers of the school to the students and explained the role and importance of their teacher, bus driver, security guard, sweeper and gardener. The tiny tots also made thanksgiving cards for the helpers. This activity evoked in the kids feelings of respect for community helpers and taught them to address the latter politely and value their work.

Sporting talents on show

From soccer to swimming, youngsters showcased their skills at the Asian International School Sports Championship 2019, in association with Young Metro

More than 250 students from around 20 schools had a blast over two days as they battled it out in the swimming pool and football ground to bag the top honours at Asian International School Sports Championship, in association with The Telegraph Young Metro, recently.

There were two age categories for the boys and girls taking part in swimming events — under-14 and under-17. There were three swimming events each for the boys and girls of each age group — freestyle, backstroke and butterfly.

In swimming, there were 58 participants from 15 schools, while in football, 16 boys' teams and two girls' teams fought it out for the under-14 championships. The host school bagged the girls' crown while Jhapordah Duke Institution, Howrah, lifted the boys' title.

AIS holds mock elections

Asian International School has successfully completed its second mock elections for the session 2019-20. The elections took place in four phases on different days. Eligible voters from classes V to X participated in this activity to enhance the very spirit of democracy.

All the social science teachers tried to create an environment of dummy elections to facilitate learning through this life skill activity.

Keeping in mind that the investiture ceremony is nearing, the class teachers had sent nominations for the elections of class prefects to the social science department (Election Commission). Two boys and two girls from each class (booth) were nominated for the purpose. Nominations were announced and the candidates started their campaigning by making posters. All the voters made their voter identity cards without which they were not allowed to vote.

On the respective days, the classes enthusiastically arranged for their events. Voters were seen to stand in a queue outside their respective classes (booths) with their identity cards. Policemen (students) were deployed at the entrance of the booth. Verification of the original voters was done by the polling officers (students) with their voters list. Ballot papers were provided to the voters. They duly cast their valuable vote (opinion) by putting their thumb impression on the Ballot Papers in to the Ballot box.

After that the polling officers put the ink as a mark of exercising the universal adult franchise on their left hand pointer. At the end of the process the policemen carried the ballot box to the counting zone. A few booths faced the unwanted rigging too, which was managed by efficient policemen to conduct a peaceful casting of votes later. Counting began after the completion of the voting process in all the booths. The class prefects have been elected.

They shall take their oath on the day of the investiture ceremony, to form a part of the student council of Asian International School.

The purpose of this mock election was served. They are as follows:

- To facilitate among students the need for exercising the fundamental right to vote.
- To make the students understand and grasp the idea of universal adult franchise as well as the spirit of democracy.
- The students also got an informal yet essential idea and knowledge on the process and working of the election system of India.

Investiture ceremony@Asian International School

Asian International School celebrated its 6th Investiture Ceremony, to select the future leaders, the Student Council of the school. It is a very important and significant event for the school as well for the students. The Investiture Ceremony signifies the reliance that the school consigns in the newly invested student office bearers.

The students had self-nominated themselves providing all the details pertaining to the position they wished to acquire. In order to appoint young leaders, AIS organized a Debate Session among the student applicants for AIS Student Council 2019-2020. Their performances and over all approach were screened by a panel of teachers, through the debate which tested their oratory skills. The students enthralled the judges and the audience with their eloquence and presentation of their views. The students were then summoned for the Personal Interview which tested their knowledge, smartness, presence of mind and intelligence.

Finally on 16th August 2019, after a motivational speech from the director Alok Sharma, the names of the council members were announced and the students were given badges, amidst the entire school, for their respective positions by our principal Vijay Lakshmi Kumar and headmistress Simran Sanghera. It was a very well-crafted and a successful event.
